Blogging apps android

Keeping up to date on the go is one of the many things that our smartphones are amazing tools for. During the everyday hustle and bustle, it's easy to ignore the world around you, but the news is everywhere, including over the phone. These are the best new apps for your Android device today! Team Pick In addition to giving you quick access to top daily headlines, Google News has a tab for you that provides news you care about. The app is free, and while it doesn't exactly replace Google Reader, it does a pretty good job at everything else. Free on Google Play Inoreader is a fantastic RSS reader and this service makes it easy to build your own news feed. And you don't have to pay a subscription unless you want to get additional features, like notifications or offline status. You can also use Inoreader on your phone or computer with the Web version. Free WIAP on Google Play Flym News Reader is a unique RSS reader as it does not sync with any services like Feedly or Feedbin. Instead, you can switch and any of your sources, and they'll save the right to the app. The articles will then be updated and appear as soon as they hit the website you're following. Free on Google Play If you prefer to get your news delivered on an RSS form, Feedly is pretty much the default choice these days. In 2015, after Google Reader closed, developed and yedged its service and app, which is a pretty good choice all round. Free WIAP on Google Play Yahoo News has become a fan favorite with its perishing sources from leading news sites around the world. In addition to live video feeds, you can customize the sources displayed within Yahoo News to customize your newsfeed. Free on Google Play for many, Flipboard is the default news app for Android. It's been going around for a while and was one of the first apps to subside the news reading at least boring with the heavy magazine-style layout. Free on Google Play it can be difficult to keep up with the world of Android news, but with an app like Dripler, this task is made a little easier. Dripler treasures news, tips and tricks, and much more than any of your favorite Android news sources while providing great design and even some widgets. Free WIAP on Google Play Just as the name suggests, the SmartNews app is cleverly designed, so you can quickly read all the latest headlines from around the world. New categories are displayed as channels at the top of the screen, giving you the option to swipe through them one by one or tap a particular channel. Free on Google Play with all the different video streaming platforms, it can be difficult to track what's coming and when it'll be out. With an app like Must, these concerns are put to rest as it acts as social media networks for movies and TV shows. Free on Google Play when the news breaks, chances are it broke through Twitter somehow. With 240 characters, Twitter has become a place to learn about everything that's going on in the world. With live updates, you'll never miss a beat. Free on Google Play Pocket has become a favorite among news readers for being able to save articles to read later quickly. In addition, there is the best section of the Internet, which will provide you with unique news articles that you may not have heard or seen otherwise. Free on Google Play it can be difficult to find an app that not only allows you to read sources from various news sites around the world. But Haystack TV does this and pushes the envelope by giving users access to more than 300 channels to watch news from your region or anywhere in the world. Free w/ Ads on Google Play Source: Andrew Myrick / Android Central The list of good news apps can go on and on for days, because there are many different ways to consume news today. This is a good problem to have as you can find the best news app to consume information in the way you enjoy. Google News has been revolving for quite some time, but hasn't been touched for too long. Google then decided to give it a much-needed and proper facelift, and it became the de facto news app for many. This is mostly partly for the provided healing and customization options built right in on the other hand, Inoreader, is for more power users who are looking for more from their news app. You can customize your newsfeed to show exactly what you want, and there are plenty of combinations to save content later with Evernote, Dropbox, and more. Disney is quite a great media property these days. They own ABC, ESPN, Marvel, Lucasfilm, and soon, Fox. That means there are several ways to communicate with Disney stuff. However, we think people looking for Disney apps want Disney's more classic characters and experiences. We can definitely help with that. Disney is, once again, massive. They have movies, TV shows, and music across a mul wealth of genres. We can help you find what you're looking for. Here are Disney's best apps for Android. Disney+ Disney Now FANDOM iHeartRadio Family Internet TV (Link to Hulu) Movies Everywhere My Disney Reddit Disney Apps Official YouTube Disney+ Price: Free Trial / $6.99 per month / $12.99 per month Disney+ is Disney's biggest app release in recent memory. It includes several Disney shows and movies along with content from Disney-owned properties (such as The Simpsons) and some original content like The Mandalorian. It's a huge success for Disney so far and it's the obvious choice for such a list. Plus, you can get Hulu, Disney+, ESPN+ for $12.99 and it's honestly the best deal in streaming right now. This is easily the best Disney app. Disney Now Price: Free with subscription TV entry Disney Now is Disney's current streaming service. You sign in to the service with your existing cable provider information and have access to a collection of Disney TV content. This includes children's shows, cartoons and live action stuff, classic and new Disney characters, and even Disney Radio. Disney+ Great streaming service, but you still get more Disney day-to-day content than Disney+ and it still fits in with your cable TV provider if you still have one. Fandom by Wikia Price: Free with ads Fandom by Wikia is a community of enthusiasts creating these small wiki pages for various media features. It used to be a collection of apps for different fandoms but it is now one app with each topic available. The app typically provides information about characters, movies, TV shows, and even certain games. It's a neat way to learn trivia about any Disney movie, show or character. Of course, it's a bit of a niche product. Trivia enthusiasts should definitely try this one. iHeartRadio family price: free/$9.99 per month to have several different versions of iHeartRadio. However, for Disney stuff, we recommend iHeartRadio Family. The hotel features 80 family-friendly music stations from a bunch of popular children's shows and movies. Of course, that includes plenty of Disney content. You can go with a station dedicated to Disney princess songs or just hit the Disney Radio Regular for a great mix of music from Disney. Of course, the full version has all these stations as well so that current fans of iHeartRadio just need to click the search button to find these stations. The premium version adds unlimited hops and a bunch of other features as well. Internet TV (Sling TV, Hulu, DirecTV Now, etc.) Price: Free/Varies it is easier (and cheaper) to watch TV than ever before. TV services like Hulu, Sling TV, YouTube TV, PlayStation Vue, and DirecTV now have a bunch of excellent kid-friendly content. As a result, they all also have access to the Disney Channel along with a bunch of Disney content connected back. For example, on Hulu, if you subscribe to the Live TV service, you get the Disney Channel, but also access to movies like Pocahontas. The amount of Disney content per streaming service varies, but you can at least get the actual channel on all of them. Honestly, it's probably better than cable for Disney stuff because you get the titles on demand as long as you subscribe to a live TV service. Plus, Disney has a subscription package of Disney+, ESPN+, and Hulu at a pretty great price here. Movies Everywhere Price: Free/Vary Movies Anywhere Movie Prices is probably the best app for movies on Google Play. It's not its own independent streaming service. It's actually a collection of other movie streaming services. You sign up with your iTunes, Amazon, Vudu, or Google Play. All the movies you have purchased on all of these services are now available in one place. The service boasts over 7,500 films and that, of course, includes tons of Disney movies along with basically every Marvel Star Wars movie as well. Disney is likely to have all these Disney+ movies when it comes out. By then, though, it's probably the best place to actually buy a Disney movie and watch it. The app is occasionally buggy. Otherwise it's pretty good. It also comes with Chromecast support. My Disney Experience / Disneyland Price: Free Disney Experience / Disneyland and Disney World are two of the most popular resorts in the world. Both also have official apps. My Disney Experience app focuses mainly on Disney World. You can use it to plan your holiday, as an interactive map of the park, and you can even buy your merch tickets there. The Disneyland app is much the same way. The app shows you information like estimated wait times, browser restaurant menus, and interaction with the park map. There are apps for all Disney parks separately, including those in Paris, Hong Kong and Shanghai. Those heading to Disney World or Disneyland certainly need these apps within reach. Reddit Price: Free/$3.99 per month/$29.99 per year Reddit is good for a lot of bases and Disney fans are no exception. The site has dozens of subreddits for Marvel properties, Star Wars movies, and, of course, classic Disney properties as well. You can talk to other people who like the things you love and post things you care about. The Reddit app keeps everything under moderate control, although people who haven't used Reddit in the past may be hard to adjust to at first. In any case, it's a great way to read the news about Star Wars, Marvel, or other Disney assets and discuss these things with other fans. The premium subscription removes advertising and also gives you some additional features. Official Disney Apps Price: Free (usually) We've said it over and over again because Disney is a huge company. As it turns out, there are a variety of official Disney apps for most of these properties. Some examples include the official Star Wars app, the official Marvel app, the ESPN app, the official ABC app and the list goes on and on. These official apps are among the best ways to interact with Disney's massive list of media companies. For example, you can watch ABC's programming on the ABC app or read about the latest Star Wars news in the Star Wars app. You can even read old Marvel comics in the Marvel app. It really depends on what kind of content each property makes, but it's all still Disney. YouTube Price: Free/$12.99 per month YouTube is an excellent, although obvious, choice for a great Disney app. You can find basically every Disney song ever made there along with a ton of clips and memes from different movies and TV shows. It's also the place to see trailers for upcoming movies or shows, reviews of different toys or games, and basically anything else you can think of. Disney has an official VEVO channel with more than 11 million subscribers. But, again, you probably already know all this so this part of the list is really just some confirmation bias. Yes, YouTube is among the best apps for Disney fans. You can optionally pay $12.99 a month to remove ads, download videos for offline use, and you get some other features.
